1. The Committee of Finance and Economics has opened shops in six major cities for selling gold and silver ornaments. Shops in Shanghai, Wuch'ang and Hankow were opened some time ago. People are allowed to buy 24 carat gold ornaments without limitation.
2. The foreign currency equivalent of US $8,000,000 and about 20 tons of gold were shipped by air from China to Moscow in several shipments. 50X1-HUM
3. These amounts were part of the foreign currency and gold turned into the People's Bank in exchange for jen min p'iao to pay fines assessed as a result of prosecution under the three- and five-anti's campaigns. The total turned in was equivalent to JPY 1,000,000,000, a much larger collection than originally estimated by the Committee of Finance and Economics.¹ Most of the gold is earmarked for the purchase of foreign goods; some is to be retained to stabilize the Chinese currency.
